SKIMPING IN WRONG PLACES
OFTEN COSTLY IN LONG RUN
CUTTING COSTS ON FUNDAMENTALS MEANS ENDLESS TROUBLE AND EXPENSE IN YEARS TO COME

CRACKED WALLS—Often caused by uneven settling of footings and foundation. Skimping on footings in either size or concrete mix is poor economy.

Where it is to cut costs in your new home and where is best to buy the best? This is a problem that most new home builders face more than once during construction. And what is the answer? It is a problem that every home owner must settle to the best of his ability with the help of his contractor and architect.

Replacement Big Factor
There is one general principle that you must set down here, however. Replace it is this. Any part of your house that is not practical to replace should have the best in construction materials. By this we mean such items as footings and foundation, timber skeleton and frame work, windows and window frames, which are really part of the house frame, should be done and written. All these things must last the life of the house.

Wiser to Wait
It is wiser to wait for some of the ultimate furnishings and fixtures until more money is available, rather than to skimp on fundamental parts of a house which will only mean costly repairs, excessive heating bills and disgust and discomfort in years to come. Remember: if you can't replace them, make them good.

Nothing to Gain Overplanting Dark Tobacco

Dark tobacco growers have practically nothing to gain and much to lose by overplanting their tobacco this year, says Charles D. Lewis, assistant director of the A. A. A. central division. Excess production in 1940 will not only reduce prices for the crop, but will also reduce the price for the crop.

Loans to Cooperators

For several years loans have been offered on dark tobacco, which have tended to keep prices from going to extremely low levels. Mr. Lewis explains that during this period producers have kept their plantings within their acreage allotments and it has been possible to make loans to both cooperators and non-cooperators.
